Western MA Per Pupil Expenditure Report

Inflation Addendum — DRAFT, October 18, 2026

The main report compares per-pupil expenditure (PPE) in nominal dollars. Over FY2009–FY2024, prices rose too: 39% by the CPI-U for the Northeast (2.2% a year) and 52% by the federal price index for state and local government purchases (2.8% a year). This addendum restates the report's PPE levels and growth rates against both.

Western MA PPE grew 4.0% a year in nominal terms. After Northeast consumer inflation, that is 1.7% a year; after state and local government inflation, 1.2% a year.

Which price index

CPI-U Northeast measures what households in the region pay for goods and services. It answers the taxpayer's question: has school spending outpaced the cost of living? The state and local government deflator (BEA, NIPA Table 1.1.9) measures the prices state and local governments pay, mostly for labor. It answers the budget's question: has spending outpaced the cost of what schools buy? The Commonwealth uses it to inflate the Chapter 70 foundation budget, with a 4.5% annual cap (M.G.L. c.70, s.2). Each index is averaged over the July–June fiscal year, the same period as DESE's school year.

Growth rates are compound annual rates. Real rates divide each year's PPE by the index for that fiscal year. Cohort averages are weighted by in-district FTE, with cohort membership set by FY2024 enrollment as in the main report; the number of districts is in parentheses.

Notes and open questions

This draft covers PPE only. Chapter 70 aid and net school spending can be restated the same way. The main report's original CPI file used calendar-year averages; this addendum uses fiscal-year averages, which match the school year.
